

Docker is Transforming
How Applications are Packaged

Docker

- Not the first Linux container technology
- Makes it easier to package and run applications with containers
- Combines Linux namespaces, control groups, and union file systems
- Core idea is to package your application with its dependencies in a single immutable container