

Challenges: Automation

- Even if you commit role bindings to a repo, there's no great way to automate updates
- Updating roles requires a delete + create
- Detecting role binding removal is very important but also quite difficult

What if we could use the same patterns for RBAC that we're already using for the rest of our infrastructure?